Are leaders born or created? One thing is clear that there are certain character traits which help an individual to become a great leader. The last century has witnessed some of the greatest of all world leaders. These leaders have always shaped our society in the past and will help to shape our future also. A great leader is always a boon to society. Here are a few qualities which can make an individual a good leader.

A leader should be exemplary. A good leader should be trustworthy so that people can follow him. A good leader is always enthusiastic about the cause of the people. He must have the capability to see what is good or bad for the people in the long run. A leader believes in discipline. He follows an orderly manner and routine but still is tolerant. A leader has excellent logical and analytical skills. He looks at each and every aspect of the situation before arriving at any decision and never loses his temper in difficult situations. A leader is always focussed towards achieving goals, what he has envisioned for and promised to his people. A great leader is proactive and committed to excellence. He always maintains high standard and acts as an idol for the followers.

A leader inspires his team to achieve targets and leads them to success. He brings the best out of them in the time of crisis also. He is the one who can give people voice and direction.

Some of these qualities are naturally present in individuals, right from the time of birth and some others are developed with experience. However, with effort these characteristics can be strengthened and developed.

- 14. * Read the following passage and summarize it :

Communications satellites are indeed a boon to the world of communication technology. Any earth-orbiting space craft that provides radio, television and facsimile communications between parts on the surface of the earth is a communication satellite. There are passive communication satellites and active communication satellites. The passive ones reflect radio signals in much the same way as a mirror reflects light. They carry no electronic equipment and no radio antennas. The American satellite called Echo-I and II, launched in 1960s, were of this type. Active satellites receive signals from transmitting stations on the ground and retransmit the signals to receiving station on the ground.
